You are being asked to join a research study. A research study is a science project that is trying to answer a question. This research project is trying to understand how kids communicate online when they are taught how to practice good digital friendship skills and will be conducted through Texas A&M University. Girl Scouts of Central Texas is not conducting any research study of any kind and will not be keeping any research-related data from this study. The information the researchers at Texas A&M will learn from this study will help protect other kids who are being cyberbullied or targeted by online predators. In the study we will ask you to participate actively in activities and conversation on a safe and fun online social network built just for you.

You do not have to be in this research study and you can stop at any time. If you have any questions, you can talk to your parents, your regular doctor, the study doctor, or you and your parents can contact Dr. Tracy Hammond by phone (401-775-8268) or by email (hammond@tamu.edu).

Do you have any questions? Do you want to be in this research study?
